Come and enjoy a relaxing Sunday afternoon and evening with us.....an entertaining play, a home-cooked meal, and Omaha's Christmas Lights!

The play, “The Forgotten Christmas Carols”, is the story of a nurse who is assigned to care for an elderly patient who has a few “psychological challenges”. He calls himself “Uncle John” and believes he has been alive for 2,000 years and has actually met people from the Christmas story that have been “forgotten”. These people include the innkeeper that turned Joseph and Mary away, the shepherd who fell asleep and missed everything, and others. He has chronicled his encounters with a collection of “forgotten Christmas carols” which he sings as he hangs ornaments he’s collected for centuries that accompany each unique Christmas song. It will make you laugh, it will make you cry. It will raise your Christmas Spirit.

Following the performance, we’ll enjoy dinner at the Main Street Café in Louisville. When we get back into Omaha, we’ll tour some of the Omaha residential communities which have been so beautifully decorated for the season. You will be back at your car around 8:45 P.M.
